"U.S., Britain Coal Crisis' Not Same"

"Don't Blame Labor Party Alone," Says Prof.

By JOHN SUTTHOFF

Coal seems to have garnered first place this year on the "Hit Parade of Unpopular Subjects." No sooner does our government negotiate a truce between labor and management in the coal mines in our country, than England suddenly learns that she has exhausted her stockpiles of coal and must immediately invoke drastic conservation measures.

This week the coal crisis in the British Isles has shared headline honors with the weather. No one can do anything about the weather, but the question of the coal crisis quite naturally falls under economics and one member of the faculty best equipped to discuss this topic is Brother T. Jerome, assistant professor of economics.

DIFFERENT CASES

In an effort to bring England's dilemma a little closer to home, we asked Brother Jerome if there was any relation between the coal shortage in Britain and the shortage induced in this country by John L. Lewis. He answered that there was no relation between the two, that the situation in the United States arose from work stoppage, and when operations had resumed, production was soon able to meet demand. "In England the case is entirely different," he said.

In explaining the crippling coal shortage in England, Brother Jerome declared that the war aided in depleting the coal stockpiles and that Britain's antiquated methods of mining coal has caused production to be outstripped by demand. The resumption of England's race for world markets and the severe winter this year have also contributed in part to the scarcity.

LISTS REASONS

"England's Labor party is not entirely to blame," suggested the economics professor. "The roots of this problem seem to be in the past. Mismanagement during the war and the failure of the coal industry to accept modernization and mechanization in the mining operations cannot be attributed solely to the government now in office."

In an effort to rebuild the vanished stockpiles of coal, the British have shut off electrical power for five hours a day. This measure has forced industry and business to close and throw 4,000,000 men out of work.

DOLE APPEASES

As an emergency measure, the dole has once more been inaugurated in the Isles. The "dole" sounds like a British word for the "52-20 club." However, Brother Jerome quickly pointed out that while the "52-20" was for re-adjustment of returning veterans who have been unable to procure work immediately after separation, the "dole" serves to satisfy or appease the unemployed workman and his family until they are once more employed.

As a means of alleviating and perhaps solving this drastic condition in England, Brother Jerome was of the opinion that steps should be taken to speed up production in the mines by introducing more rigid safety precautions, more modern methods of coal mining, and a broader system of education for the miners.

RECEIVES AWARD—Rev. Thomas McCarthy, editor of Tidings, presents Tidings Annual Radio Public Service Award to NBC's "Standard Hour." Announcer Frank Barton, prominent alumnus, accepts on behalf of the program which is heard Sundays at 8:30 p.m., PST.

Welcome Dance to Climax Frosh Week

Sullivan Raps New Freshman

Yearlings Allege Ritual Childish

Lack of cooperation displayed by low freshmen in the initiation program was the subject of attack by President John Sullivan at a meeting of the high freshmen held Wednesday at 12:30 in the field house.

Thuogh the primary object of the meeting was to discuss plans for the initiation, the Freshman Welcome Dance was also stressed by Sullivan, freshman class president.

Sullivan contended that though the initiation period was formally begun on Wednesday morning, many of the low freshmen seemed unwilling to cooperate in the affair, so that by noon of Wednesday activities had not yet begun.

Sullivan went to each freshman class but met with little success in the sale of "dinks" he said. It was this lack of spirit he criticized at the meeting. He urged the high freshmen to arm themselves with paddles and to conduct a thorough search for those freshmen, especially the non-resident students, who refused to be subject to initiation.

INITIATION "CHILDISH"

Sullivan said that in his morning tour of the low frosh classes he received many complaints about the whole initiation program, some refusing to cooperate because they believe initiation childish.

He immediately placed guards at strategic locations to prevent those unwilling members of the freshman class from neglecting to do their part in the program while the more willing members subjected to it.

MARCH YEARLINGS

The official program this week included marching the resident freshmen students to breakfast in the mornings, escorting all low freshmen who eat lunch in the dining room to their meal, and doing the same at dinner.

A special program of races and gymnastics was demanded of the new students with high freshmen conducting the proceedings and with all the upper division members as spectators.

If the weather permitted the low frosh this week were to play the high in football and, if possible, also in basketball. Sullivan asked for volunteers for the formation of the two teams.

MODERATOR RESIGNS — Brother Henry, Collegian moderator, quit his post with the ending of the recent semester because of pressing duties as head of student recruiting.

MODERATOR QUITS POST

Added Duties Bar Newspaper Work

Owing to academic duties and particularly because of his resuming the important work of student recruiting, Brother Henry has found it necessary to curtail his collegiate program, consisting of teaching, the control of the principal student publication, and student recruiting for the college. after being moderator of student publications for five years, he has been released, temporarily, from this extra-curricular activity. In its stead he will resume student recruiting, along with his usual academic work. As moderator of student publications, he will be replaced by Mr. William I. Bettencourt, also director of public relations.

EXPERIENCED

Recruiting students for college is not an assignment new to Brother Henry since he was engaged in this for several years prior to 1946. His visitations cover the following Catholic high schools: Saint Elizabeth's, Oakland; Saint Mary's, Berkeley; Saint Mary's, Stockton; Saint Anselm's, San Anselmo; Saint Vincent's, Petaluma; Saint Vincents', Vallejo; Sacred Heart, San Francisco; Saint Jame's, San Francisco; Saint Peter's, San Francisco; Saint Joseph's, Alameda; Cathedral, Los Angeles; Saint Monica's, Santa Monica; Saint Anthony's, Long Beach; Saint Bernard's, San Bernardino; Villanova Preparatory, Ojai; Saint Agnes', Los Angeles; Saint Augustine's, San Diego; Cathedral, El Paso, and Saint Michael's, Santa Fe.

It is thought by most educators that the present high tide of college registration, on the part of veterans, will begin to ebb in the not to distant future. For this reason, Saint Mary's College thinks that future graduates from high schools must not be lost sight of. Hence, Brother Henry will begin again to help keep college education before prospective Saint Mary's men.

ACADEMIC WORK ONLY

As the recruiting will call for frequent absence from the campus and, besides, entails much correspondence work, he feels that he must forego all campus activities except those that are definitely academic. For this reason, the president of the college has temporarily relieved him of journalistic supervision.

Through the war and during the post-war period, up until now, Brother Henry managed the "Collegian," Saint Mary's student paper.

Last Pre-Lent Social Sunday

Saint Francis Scene of Affair

The grand finale in atonement for some of the sufferings and hardships endured by the low freshmen this week will be held next Sunday night from 8:30 o'clock to 12:30 a.m. at the Saint Francis hotel in San Francisco. The occasion will be the traditional Freshmen Welcome dance.

An informal affair, it is sponsored by the high freshmen and will be held in the Colonial and Italian rooms of the fashionable Saint Francis in downtown San Francisco.

NO CORSAGE RULE

The music of Howard Fredericks and his orchestra will be featured. As usual, the no-corsage rule will be in effect, is was announced by John Sullivan, class president and dance chairman.

For this dance, there will be something definitely different—admission will be free!

Although sponsored by the high freshmen, the Freshmen Welcome expenses will be paid from ASSMC funds as a result of Executive Council legislation. Bids to the affair, the last pre-Lenten social, can be obtained from President Sullivan in Room 134, Aquinas Hall.

COMMITTEE ASSISTS

Assisting Sullivan is a committee composed of Bob ozlowski, vice president of the class; Hugh Connelli, secretary; Tom Shea, treasurer; Jim McCaffrey and Arch Dessert, representatives to the Executive Council; Dave Hardin, J. Cochrane, Dave Herrenbruck, Frank Burke, and Jerry Lannon.

"The Freshman Welcome is the final act in the welding of the two yearling groups into one class," said Sullivan. "No longer will there be two separate factions, but one large freshmen class with one set of officers."

Transportation facilities are also being arranged by the committee, he added.

Phelan Welcomes New Don Mentor

Head Coach Jimmy Phelan was one of the first on hand to greet the newly arrived University of San Francisco football coach, Edward "Tex" McKeever, when he arrived last week in San Francisco.

Phelan knows the high calibre of McKeever's football coaching, because he has followed the rise of the young mentor.

The two met a few years back when the youthful McKeever attended a football coaching school which Phelan headed.

Keen football competition is assured the Bay Area followers of the annual Gae-Don pigskin frays, Phelan predicted.

Joseph Alioto '38 In Fishery Dispute

Joseph Alioto, Saint Mary's college graduate of the class of '38, is playing a prominent part in the current coast-wide fishermen's dispute. The San Francisco lawyer represents Northern California Fishieries Association in their court battle to declare their contract with a labor union null and void.

Lenten Devotions Start Wednesday

Marriage Topic Each Week

Stations of Cross Set for Friday

With the opening of Lent on next Wednesday—Ash Wednesday—a complete list of devotions for the season of penance was announced today by Father Edmund Moss, student chaplain.

On Wednesday, Friday and Monday special exercises will be held. On Wednesday evenings during Lent a series of talks on the subject of marriage will be given by Reverends John McCracken and Howard Rasmussen of Saint Augustine's Church in Oakland. The series will be so arranged that each Wednesday the men will alternate.

The first speaker next Wednesday evening will be Reverend John McCracken whose subject will be, "The Vocation of Marriage." Prior to the sermon there will be the public recitation of the Rosary, and following it there will be Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament.

STATIONS HELD ON FRIDAY

The Friday religion classes will be dismissed at 11:30 to enable all to attend the Stations of the Cross and Benediction. These services will be concluded by 12-noon. All students are expected to attend, Father Moss said.

The Question Box, a regular Monday evening feature in the De La Salle lounge, will be resumed on Monday evening at 7:00 o'clock. This program features the presentation of questions concerning faith and morals proposed by the students. Father Moss and Brother Robert answer the questions, one proposing the question, and the other answering it. All questions will be answered. Students wishing to propose questions for the program are asked to deposit them in a box marked for that purpose in the rear of the Chapel.

Ash Wednesday will feature the distribution of blessed ashes. Ashes will be distributed after the 7:00 Mass, evening devotions and during the religion classes.

Sacred Heart Announces Speech School

To develop latent Catholic leadership in the bay region, a school of speech at Sacred Heart College in San Francisco has been formed under the direction of Brother Alexander, F.S.C., it was announced this week.

The school, established especially for potential Catholic leaders, offers evening courses designed to produce confident, trained speakers.

Brother Alexander is recognized as one of the outstanding speech coaches on the Pacific Coast. His experience in forensics extends over a period of 15 years and includes two terms as chairman of the National Forensic League for California and Arizona.

Like the Rain, Records Fall Here

Like the rain, registration records fell at Saint Mary's this week when 136 new students enrolled as low freshmen to augment the record 473 yearlin enrollees of last August.

The registration set these two marks:

1. The largest mid-year freshman class in the history of the college.

2. The largest all-freshman class, 609 students, in the history of Saint Mary's

Yes, indeed! The population of the "little white academic city" has growing pains!

Orators Set For Hearst Competition

Once again the annual oratorical contest sponsored by William Randolph Hearst is getting under way.

All regular full time students are eligible to iparticpate with the exception of winners of grand national prizes in previous Hearst oratorical competition.

The general subject is"Patrigk Henry, Patriot, and must be original, delivered without notes and must not exceed six minutes.

It may be recalled that in 1945 Stan Paumisano, current president of the student body, was the winner of the oratorical competition for that year. He not only brought glory to St. Mary's but also got a trip and some coin for his efforts.

Dr. LeFevre reported that already several students have expressed a desire to try out and it is anticipated that many others will follow. It is a great opportunity for all students of St. Mary's.

Brothers Talk At Lions Clubs

During the recent between-semester vacation, Brother Albert and Brother Robert completed the first part of a scheduled series of talks before bay area organizations.

Brother Albert spoke at the weekly meetingof the Lafayette Lion's club on the various aspects of college life, and especially activities at Saint Mary's College.

Brother Robert spoke before 70 members of the Lion's Club of Walnut Creek. His talk consisted of much entertaining material concerning French Canada, with which Brother Robert is singularly familiar.

VA Announces Insurance Data

GI insurance has been termed the veteran's "best asset from service" by responsible members of Government, commercial insurance firms, the press and the armed forces.

Yet only one veteran out of four has kept his GI insurance. Veterans Administration figures show that 11 million veterans have let their policies lapse in comparison to three million still in effect.

VA wants veterans to know these three things about NSLI:

1. NSLI is just as cheap as during the war.

2. NSLI has been broadened by Congress to meet their peacetime needs. This means that policy holders have a free choice of beneficiaries, and that the insurance can be paid off in a lump sum or an installment basis, or both.

3. NSLI term policies that have lapsed can be reinstated for only the cost of two monthly premiums.

Transition Talks Start

Conlan to Begin Series for Seniors

Resumption of the transition series of talks sponsored by the Alumni Association for members of the senior class will begin today when Louis G. Conlan '26 addresses the last-year men at 11 a. m. in D208.

Mr. Conlan, principal of Mission High school, San Francisco, will speak on "School Teaching as a Profession."

EXPLAINS PURPOSE

"The purpose of this series," explained John Henning '38, "is to acquaint seniors with some of the problems they will encounter in their chosen professional field."

A regular activity of the Alumni Association prior to the outbreak of war, the transition talks were interrupted by the hostilities.

LENT INTERRUPTS

During Lent, the program will be interrupted because of stations of the cross each Friday, but the talks will be resumed immediately after Lent and will be given each Friday.

Future speakers, all members of the Alumni Association, will be selected by a special committee to be named by C. Wesley Davis, Alumni president.

New Cover Is Featured On Brickpile

A distinctive new cover design will be one of the features of the March issue of The Brickpile, student literary magazine, according to Editor Jerry Murphy. The magazine will appear in the last week of this month, featuring 15 articles, stories, and poems.

Staff members voted the new cover design at a Wednesday afternoon meeting, Murphy explained, after open discussion of various suggested designs.

DIFFERENT SYSTEM

"The Brickpile staff operates in what we consider a unique manner," the editor explained. "Important decisions are referred to a vote of the staff, as in the case of this cover design. In this manner we hope to keep The Brickpile in touch with all phases of student life."

The magazine will go on sale on the campus at 25 cents per copy. Distributors will circulate through the dormitories, as before, and a campaign will be made to interest day students in the Brickpile also.

WIDE VARIETY

John Sutthoff and Fred Mullen are co-authors of a humorous poem which will be one of the features of the March issue. The life and times of Jose Moraga, early California settler, will be the subject of an article by Don Rauber. A short history of the Oakland campus of Saint Mary's College—The Brickpile—will be written by Jerry Murphy.

Aims and purposes of the Catholic Intercollegiate council will be explained in an article by Dale Rasmussen, Saint Mary's representative to the council, and one of the founders of the new CIC.

Dick Siggins, Collegian sports editor, will give his impression of the overall athletic picture for Saint Mary's in the next few years.

Portrait of a typical student will be done in words by Bill Kelly. Dan Arzac and Stanley Parmisano will contribute poems to the issue.

Mencarini Receives 3 Posthumous Awards

Manuel Mencarini, junior student from Manila, Philippine Republic, today was the recipient of three awards received posthumously for his parents in recognition of their heroic efforts in establishing a hospital for needy persons during the Japanese occupation of the Philippines.

At a formal presentation ceremony at the Malacanan Palace in Manila on January 20, he received two American Red Cross awards from the Honorable Elpidio Quirio, vice president of the republic, and yesterday at a formal retreat ceremony at the Presidio of San Francisco, he received the Medal of Freedom from the U.S. Army.

FLIES TO MANILA

Journeying to the Philippine capital, Mencarini was guest of the Philippine Airlines. The plane he traveled on left the Oakland Municipal airport on the afternoon of January 16 and reached Manila on the evening of the 19th.

The trip, according to Mencarini, was a bit tiring, and except for the brief stops at Honolulu and Kwajalein, there was nothing to see but ocean and more ocean.

During his six-day stay in the Philippine capital, Mencarini visited many relatives and friends still living there. During a short visit to De La Salle College in Manila, the Christian Brothers school he attended before coming to Saint Mary's, he met many of his former classmates, some of whom are now teaching there.

MET PARENTS' FRIENDS

At the ceremony of presentation, he met all the people who worked with his parents during the war, and in his own words: "I was very happy to meet them again, and they seemed pleased to see me again."

The return trip, which started on January 25, was delayed at Honolulu for about 12 hours while waiting for favorable weather around San Francisco. While waiting for clearance, Mencarini stayed at the Waikiki Hotel as guest of the airlines.

FINISHED ON 3 ENGINES

The delay because of bad weather was just the beginning of a more exciting trip. About 1200 miles from Oakland, one of the plane's four engines quit, and the remainder of the journey was made on three. This was one of the longest three-engine flights made by this type of plane. During the trouble between Honolulu and Oakland the Philippine airlines plane was escorted by two U.S. Army bombers.

Upon landing at the airport in Oakland January 27, Mencarini and the rest of the passengers were surprised to find reporters eagerly seeking information about engine trouble of which the passengers were not awae during the trip. At this time Mencarini learned that his plane was supposed to have had an oil leak in one of the engines on the flight from Manila to Honolulu.

Notice to All Subscribers!

Due to the increased costs of publishing the "Collegian," it is necessary to curtail as far as possible all expenses in connection with its publication and circulation.

Therefore, after this issue, the Collegian will be issued only to regular subscribers and those whose names are submitted by the Alumni association and Saint Mary's clubs.

Those desirous of receiving future issues of the Collegian are requested to mail in their subscription as soon as possible.

Special rates will be given to group subscriptions submitted by various alumni units and clubs interested in Saint Mary's College.

Broadcast Will Feature Talk With Mencarini

The story of Manuel Mencarini's dramatic trip to the Philippine Islands to receive the Red Cross citation posthumously awarded his mother for her efforts of behalf of the allies during the war will be told on "Saint Mary's on the Air" next Monday evening at 10:45 o'clock over KROW.

Manuel will be the guest on the broadcast, which will be the first of the new semester. During his visit he will describe the award ceremony and the reason behind it, as well as his flight across the Pacific.

SEEK POPULAR TUNE

In this issue of the Collegian there appears a coupon on which is to be written the favorite record which students would like played on the program. Fill in the title and drop the ballot in the box which is to be found in the Co-op. The song receiving the largest number of requests each week is played the following Monday. Deadline for ballots is noon on Monday.

LIKE VIOLENT SONGS

The tastes of the Gael students as represented by the decisions of the two weeks during which the plan was in operation seem to run to the more violent melodies, according to Bill Brennan, program director.

"Saint Mary's on the Air" was cancelled during the two weeks of vacation and the program of February 17 will be the first in the resumed series, which will continue throughout the semester until the end of May.

Phelan Estate Gives Poetry Award Rules

Speaking on behalf of the board of trustees of the late Senator James D. Phelan, Noel Sullivan made an announcement of interest to all Saint Mary students concerning the 1947 contest open to all writers of poetry. This award is made annually to bring about a higher development of California talent. It carries a stipend of $1250.00.

Application is open to both men and women between the ages of 20 to 40, being limited to native born citizens of the state of California. The applications for this contest must be made on special forms which may be obtained only at the office of the James D. Phelan Award in Literature and Art, 820 Phelan Building, San Francisco, 2, California.

REFERENCES NEEDED

Those competing in the competition must furnish the names of three persons who are acquainted with the field in which they are working, and who are acquainted also with the applicant and his work. If so desired, applicants are required to present samples of their work. The competition for this contest closes March 14, 1947.

The Trustees of the Phelan estate will appoint experts in the field to judge the work recommending the successful candidate for the award which will be made about May 1, 1947.

Acolytes Start High Gear Activity

With the season of Lent about to open, an appeal was made this week for all men who know how to serve Mass, Benediction or Stations of the Cross to sign up. A meeting of the Sanctuary Society to be held in Room 201, Dante hall, next Tuesday at 12:30 o'clock.

Sanctuary Society president, Tom Lorenzini, announces that special practices will be held for those who feel a bit "rusty" with reference to serving.

It is planned to rearrange the assignment list for altar servers so that more men will have an opportunity to serve than in the past, Lorenzini said. Appointments will be made for the first three days and the last four days of each week. Two men will be appointed to serve at a time. Four men will serve Stations on Friday mornings and Benediction on Wednesday evenings during Lent.

The practice of having movies at regular intervals will be resumed in the near future, according to Lorenzini. The first two movies presented by the Sanctuary Society were successful. It is planned to show the long-awaited "The Sullivans," at the next program.

The Man Says: "We Need Rain!"

How's the weather Well, officially we need more rain!

That's the answer from a campus authority, Brother Benedict, who daily keeps an accurate check on atmospheric conditions through instruments installed on the campus by the Navy and now maintained by the Saint Mary's professor.

Temperatures on the campus this week ranged from a minimum 42 degrees to a maximum 62, Brother Benedict reported.

Normal rainfall to date is 14 inches. However, Saint Mary's instruments reveal that only seven inches have fallen thus far.

From Christmas to February 1, temperatures dropped below freezing every day except three. The lowest temperature recorded was 22 degrees.

Frank Barton Receives Public Service Award

Extremists Don't Rate Success

Another semester has come and gone; a new one is in the offing. To some who are returning it means another four months of trying to pull up some grades or trying to maintain the standards of the past. To others it means an introduction to college life and to still more a unique and trying problem of a switch over from military life. To all, the staff of the Collegian says, "Good luck and success."

Success in your studies? Not entirely. Success in social activities and in gaining friends? Not that alone. A college student should strive for complete success in both, seldom attained, or at least a partial success in both. To those who are attending Saint Mary's with the singular idea that they are going to get good grades and worry about little or nothing else a word of caution is directed.

Not long ago a student was overheard to remark, "Do you know that fellow over there? I'd certainly dislike being in his shoes. Sure, he gets some of the highest marks in the school, yet I have never seen him in the company of another student or been able to strike up a conversation with him."

One of two things is the matter with such a student, either he is so possessed with the idea of making good grades that he neglects or overlooks social contact or he has no personality and seeks to satisfy his own ego in the only way he knows how, by obtaining good grades. In both cases he should be pitied and in both cases he needs help. He should realize that his fellow students are those who will someday be his colleagues in the business world, and, while there is still no business friction between them, he should strive to cultivate their friendship. If he has difficulty in making friends, then the worst possible thing for him to do is to retire into a shell—he should strive with all his power to overcome such an enormous handicap. We should help him by making overtures. Don't get him to help with that composition, that only makes him flatter himself more in pursuit of his studies. Ask him to go to the movie with the gang. He needs help and he can't do it alone. Give him a hand in the practice of Christian charity.

On the other hand there is the extrovert, the loud mouth, the B.T.O. Last year's crop is gone, soon another of the campus characters will find it appropriate to leave the vale of Moraga. He deems it his personal duty to make friends with nearly every man on the campus, to let them know he is present by some "witty" remark in a classroom, to join every theatergoer, every card game and every bull session. Studies? That word strikes a dim note in his memory. He needs our help as much as the introvert. He fails to realize that others are laughing at him, not with him. Don't laugh! Try to induce him to study by keeping him out of those card games and bull sessions during study hours.

The happy medium sought by the majority of the students can best be found in interesting themselves in their surroundings, entering into some form of student activity AND STICKING WITH IT.

Attend Lenten Devotions

On Wednesday the holy season of Lent will begin. We as Catholics should know what this season means. For forty days our Lord went out into the desert to pray and fast in preparation for his death and resurrection. He did this out of pure love for us. We as imitators of Christ are expected to do the same in preparation for the celebration of the anniversary of His death and resurrection. We are not, however asked to go out into a burning desert, we are not asked to completely abstain from all food; we are only asked to make a few minor sacrifices, to bring our hearts and souls closer to God for the purpose of acknowledging His great love for us.

Performing these limited sacrifices is not an easy task, but remember Christ's was not an easy task either, and it was only with His Father's help that he was able to complete his task. He had to rebuke the temptor; we will have to rebuke the temptor. The men of Saint Mary's should imitate Christ; should spend forty days with Him in prayer and sacrifice in thanks to Him who offered His life for our eternal salvation. We can do this by attending daily mass and communion.

Support the Frosh Dance

Sunday night will be a very important evening for every loyal wearer of the Red and Blue. On that night the traditional Freshman Welcome Dance—a gala occasion every year on the Gael social agenda —will be seld at the St. Francis Hotel in Ean Francisco.

Incoming yearlings will be guests of honor at the event signifying their official admission to the status of Saint Mary's Men. Forgotten will be the tyrannies of initiation week with its accompanying rigors of reversed trousers, "I Am A Freshman" placards, and sundry diabolical plots on the part of Sophomore students. Rather, this night will mark the social debut of the largest Freshman Spring semester enrollment in Saint Mary's College history.

The men in charge of the Frosh Welcome Dance, headed by John Sullivan, have spared no detail in assuring that the affair will be an unqualified success. They have covered every phase of preparation with commendable thoroughness.

All that remains is that the student body plays its part by being at the Colonial Room en masse Sunday night.

With this end in mind The Collegian believes it would be well to point out that upperclassmen will suffer no loss of dignity by attending the dance. The principle behind the Freshman Welcome Dance is to gather all classes and groups in Saint Mary's College together to exemplify the Spirit that is present in the minds and hearts of Saint Mary's men.

Welcome, Coach McKeever!

In friendly greeting across the bay, we extend a warm and sincere handshake of welcome to Edward C. "Tex" McKeever, new football coach of the University of San Francisco Dons.

With Coach McKeever ensconced in the football chair on the Hilltop, the gridiron picture for the three bay area independents is bright, for he brings to the local scene the vigor and enthusiasm necessary for wholesome intercollegiate athletic rivalry.

Welcome, Coach McKeever!

YOU CAN CARRY ANYTHING TOO FAR!

WHAT EVERY YOUNG FRESHMAN SHOULD KNOW:
That Louis Guisto, who runs the Coop where you get your cokes and shakes, was one of Saint Mary's greatest baseball and football players, meriting a place on Dr. Louis LeFevre's all-time all-Saint Mary's gridiron roster . . . that John Mulshenock, who slings the ice cream for Louis, never will admit that any team could ever beat his native Delaware eleven. . . That you won't find a more beautiful chapel than that of Our Lady, for as far as you can throw a searching glance. . . . That Dick Desmond, who edits this weekly, was a PRO for the Army in the recent wars. . . . That English Instructor Yale Meyers is going to start a series of evening record concerts in the next week or so. . . . That your class has the highest percentage of daydogs of any class in the past few years, which probably proves something—but nobody yet knows what.

THINGS YOU WILL LIKE:
The people you meet—there are more square guys per dozen on this campus than you could imagine; you will really appreciate that fact, if you hang on until you earn that Bachelor of Ardor degree . . . and you will fall in love with Mamie Josephs at the first Cal game. . . . You may even get to adopt a tolerant attitude toward Moraga's No 1 class auditor, Jiggs. . . . Certainly you will get a secret thrill out of the first Spring days on this campus, when even the classrooms are full of that bubbling countryfied spirit. . . . And those days when at least one nature lover falls asleep beside Dance Hall every day while sunbathing between classes. . . .

THINGS YOU WON'T LIKE:
Having cars pass you by with a swish while you're hitching a ride to the Big City—cars full of nothing but their driver's big head. . . . Listening to the Coop geniuses who have all the answers to the student body's problems, but never have the time to mention their wisdom to Stan Parmisano (unless his back is turned). . . . The aerial wire on the cross on top of the Brother's study hall at the north end of the Administration building—combining utility with impiety. . . .

ODDS 'N ENDS:
Bill Vierra and John McDermott are both sporting surgical tonsures to academic festivities this week—no, not from the seminary, but from close shaves. Littlejohn was slow-rolling his Chevrolet on the Orinda Road, and let his nose fall below the horizon, going into a nasty whipstall at zero feet. Bill was on the level, at least—something about a ski, he says. . . . Next week may see the Rally Committee resplendent in new jackets, in time for the Santa Clara game. The Ex-Council battle over said items was somethin' fierce—but the red-and-blue creations may yet turn out to be a sight for sure ayes. . .

Gridder Denis O'Connor has lost an argument—he will never out-count the new World Classics student who enrolled this week; Denis, you'll be a young man yet! . . . They say that USF's baseball team is "loaded." . . . (Out of respect, we will not correct that sentence.) . . . Chain-smokers will please begin following John T "Jaunty" Sullivan, now that Chesterfield's man Thursday has graduated, giving McManus and Perry Como a place in the nicotine Hall of Fumes.

ADD SIMILIES:
As taut as Tom Twomey on registration day; as frustrated as a frantic freshman; as hopeful as a senior when he gets his green book for his last semester —as horrified as a senior when he reads it. As blithe as Brother Albert; as happy as Hank Van Gieson; as important as Mickey Tobin; as serious as the Brothers Garaventa. . . .

A WORD TO WISE MEN:
Certain faculty members ought to carry their night life further away from their academic front yard: if you must carry on, gentlemen, be smart about your whereabouts! ". . . if it makes the groundlings laugh, it must make the judicious grieve." . . . The yokel who bases his wholefame on Fiat Lux and Fiat Cadillac is treading on thin ice when he starts making his own rules about attendance at classes—after all, chum, you've never made any touchdowns . . .

Moraga Musings

MOUNTAIN MISCHIEF—The Ex-Council should investigate the shenanigans of several of its members at Soda Springs during the mid-semester holidays. . . . And to think one of them carries a pair of boxing gloves in his Plymouth. Eh, Stan! !

SUPPER CLUB NOTES—Old Man Chesterfield ought to give the word to his campus publicity man, John "They Satisfy" Sullivan, who smokes only tobacco . . . in a pipe!!

VIGILANTES INC.—The West Endees of the three dorms are swearing to string up a few of Farmer Brown's cattle if they don't restrict their bellowing and bull sessions to the daylight hours.

IT'S A SMALL WORLD—Several Saint Mary's men got quite a start last Saturday night when they hustled out for a breath of air during the Dominican College dance at the Saint Francis and ran right square into Father Moss and Brother Al. S'nuff said.

MAKES A MILLION—"Marty" Kordick made a 1,000,000 points last Monday night when he came through in the clutch and got a dozen or so Gaels into the jam-packed Civic auditorium for the Bittners-Oilers game.

The Bystander

by BERT CALLEN

PROBLEMS
There has arisen in San Francisco something akin to a major crisis. This column has to do with a certain aspect of the dispute across the bay and it is written here with some misgiving because many of you hold to be true and just an ultimatum submitted by Mayor Lapham to the municipal railway.

As you have probably guessed—this whole thing has been provoked by the timely issue of cable-cars and their management or mismanagement, as you will.

Actually the question has a deeper significance than most people imagine, or care to admit when it is discovered. The problem of the cable cars has been a butt of mockery and jokes—good and bad. On the other hand, it has been something of a grave concern for a good many other people, including me.

The mayor of San Francisco is a business man. I am distrustful of business men. To me they move in a world of hard-heartedness, singleness of purpose, and unrelenting drive. There seems to be no warmth, or love, or any of the things that are conducive not only to a gracious life, but a leisurely and enjoyable one.

No matter what the situation or how honest the intentions of a businessman, the fact that they are businessmen is enough to give me a sense of being pushed around. I feel elbowed and uncomfortable.

To argue against the mayor automatically brands one as a stupid, blind, unreasoning sentimentalist. Perhaps we are sentimentalists who stand up against him; I don't know. I have never considered myself as a sentimentalist, but if I am one that's all right too.

The sad thing about it is, though, that a person so easily loses sight of an ideal when dollar signs slowly rise from the ground. They are very effective stumbling blocks.

THE SOLUTION
Of course, cable cars aren't an ideal, but character is; and if cable cars instill character into San Francisco then I see no reason, and certainly would not go out of my way to find a reason—for their quietus. This is especially true when one considers the cable cars CAN be self-supporting if they are terminated somewhere around Clay Street.

To say they are dangerous and buses should be trusted is like saying the Constellation is unsafe and only the DC-4 should be used for flying. Nob Hill on a rainy afternoon isn't safe to walk on much less drive a bus up, no matter how many motors it has. If safety is such a big factor why not level off the hill, or else go through or around it? Don't worry about transportation; people who live up there are supposed to be so rich anyway that I doubt seriously if they tread the earth. It's such a mundane thing to do, you know.

There is no question that the cars are quaint and physically old fashioned, but when they are regarded not as nuisances, but rather as a living testimonial to the reckless, ingenious thought of early San Franciscans, they become not half as burdensome as they seem and present, furthermore, an added reason for their being retained.

All of this, I am sure, sounds weak and watery to anyone who charges like a bull in mad fury when the record book is waved in front of him showing here and there a few figures in red on the debit side of the page.

But sounding a note of rage accomplishes nothing but bitterness and ill feeling. It is time we looked for more than monetary profit in our dealings. There are several machines throughout the country whose sole reason for existence is the figuring out of problems—financial and mathematical. Businessmen oftentimes come perilously close to the brink of dark, unwavering, narrow numerical value. A machine can do that now, but it takes a living, breathing human being to feel a sense of pride in accomplishments that have a meaning above that of the financial page.

On the Level

by FR. EDMUND MOSS

One of the truly attractive queens of France, we are told by historians, was Marie Antoinette. Not only was she physically attractive, but also from the standpoint of her fidelity to her husband and her children, she showed, towards the end of her life, certain admirable qualities. Perhaps one of the outstanding characteristics of this ill-fated queen was her stoicism in the face of danger.

In the book, "Memoirs of Marie Antoinette", written by her lady-in-waiting, Madame Campan, we learn of the final days of this last queen of the French empire. She had been preceded in death by her husband, Louis XVI; she had been separated from her children and everything which she held dear. Her only consolation in those last fateful days was that afforded by the church.

Madame Campan write: "She listened with calmness to the exhortations of the priest who accompanied her, and cast an indifferent look at the people who had applauded her beauty and grace, and who now applauded her execution. She hastened to ascend the fatal ladder, and gave herself to the executioner. She would not betray her royal blood by giving way to tears of fear. "Her dignity as queen she preserved to the very end.

Marie Antoinette, like so many others of the nobility, had a deep appreciation of her position. "Noblesse oblige" —rank has its obligation, was a principle which so many of the nobility followed to the letter. To betray a weakness, even a physical one, to their subjects was to betray their cause. True, none of us could well sympathize with the cruel and merciless attitude of many of the nobles towards their subjects, but we must respect their fidelity to their caste.

We, as Catholics, belong to the nobility of Christ by virtue of His Redemptive power. To us has been given the true faith without any effort on our part. Unfortunately, there are far too many Catholics who fail to appreciate their faith. Whether we like to admit it or not, our behavior as Catholics is under continual surveillance by those who know us as Catholics and are ready to find fault with our religion because of our miscues and shortcomings.

Today more than ever before, there is a real interest in the church, made possible no doubt by the close associations of men of all creeds together in the service.

Some of our Catholic men conducted themselves as real Christians and through their good example, have influenced others to make inquiries concerning the Faith. On the contrary there were others, who forgetting their kinship with Christ, conducted themselves as pagans, indulging in every type of excess. These forgot that rank has its obligations.

What is true of Catholics in general is also true of men who are attending a Catholic school. People are quick to pass judgment on our untoward action, whereas they might excuse it as a childish prank if performed by a student from a public school. We are continually being watched—not entirely for the sake of finding fault, but rather because people are interested to see the influence of Catholic training on the students subjected to it.

With the opening of the new term we appeal to all, Catholic and non-Catholic alike, to conduct yourselves at all times and in all places as Christian gentlemen. Let your light shine before all men, that seeing it, they too might one day share in your good fortune of possessing that which they so desire. Remember, "noblesse oblige"—rank has its obligations.

Senior Sketch

by DAN ARZAC, JR.

A disinterested and impartial glimpse of the seniors will convince one that Saint Mary's instills in its students a strong sense of modesty. Although they are necessarily annoyed by the questioning which the presentation of this weekly sketch involves, an interrogation, all the more tedious since your columnist is far from being a member of the upper division, they almost invariably seem surprised, and naively gratified that they are the subject of this column's limelight. And, again almost invariably, every one of the seniors will point to another senior as a more likely subject.

This week, however, the consensus of opinion was that, because we have so large a number of new students, it would be wise and proper to present to them our student body president, Stanley Parmisano.

CHAMPION ORATOR
We are proud of Stan, and justly so. The justice of our pride in him is attested to by a scroll which hangs in our student lounge. It contains a message of congratulation and commendation from the Assembly of the California Legislature. The occasion of this unparalleled honor?

Stan is the winner of the James Monroe National Collegiate Oratorical Competition of 1945, organized under the sponsorship of William Randolph Hearst. The scroll points out that, undaunted by a speech defect and by his failure to receive even honorable mention in the Sullivan Memorial Oratorical Contest held the previous year in San Francisco, Stan preserved in his efforts and, in this more universal competition, emerged not merely the regional victor but the national champion. Indeed, the resolution states that Stanley Parmisano is a true representative of the American spirit of "Never Say Die."

Is it any wonder that a man of such qualities is an honor student, a leader in academic and student body activities on the campus, or that he was elected to our highest student office by an overwhelming majority?

Born in 1926, Stan is a native of Daly City. He received his elementary education in San Francisco and went to high school in Santa Barbara and San Francisco. After graduating from Saint James' in 1944 he came to Saint Mary's. Needless to say, he was a prominent student during his prep school days, serving as student body president. His developing poetic ability is illustrated by the inclusion of one of his works in the National Anthology of High School Poetry in 1943, and his budding oratorical ability is exemplified by his winning in 1943 of the oratory contest sponsored by the Native Sons of the Golden West. Here at Saint Mary's he has been a member of the Collegian staff(he did the column now turned out by Bert Callen), president of the Art Society, the Fourth Estate and the Sanctuary Society, secretary of the ACCMC, a contributor to the Brickpile, and at all times a member of the executive council.

He claims that he has occupied these numerous offices only because during the war years there was no one else to handle them. But then, with Stan around, we'd be foolish to look for another man.

LITERARY INTERESTS
As Stan himself puts it, he is "amorous of the humanities". He is addicted to poetry, which he can quote by the ream at the drop of a hat, to dramatics, philosophy, languages and music, and he is at present interested in organizing on the campus various literary groups to be sponsored by a revived APGU.

All of us have tastes or likings peculiar to ourselves, and Stan's run to writing poetry by candlelight during the late hours in the garret of senior dorm and to going into regular and periodic ecstasies on Tuesday and Thursday night,s when he holds forth on lofty subjects and floats so high that he talks down to Paul Bernardis, his roommate, who is one of the tallest inhabitants of Morgue Valley.

I don't want to convey the impression that Stan is in any respect highbrow. He is friendly and approachable, and even willing to talk to freshmen. He has a cousin who is a boxer, and he likes to imagine that he has some of his cousin's dexterity, which accounts for the boxing gloves he carries in his car, but not for the black eye he was recently sporting—that is a long story in itself, involving a mistaken overcoat, Soda Springs, and the shock of sudden violence.

Gael Gossip

By Dick Siggins, Sports Editor

Comparisons of basketball teams with the quintets of yesteryear are risky attempts. The style of offense has been ever changing during the last fifteen years. Tall men have replaced the short on the best teams in the country. The gam has been speeded up by the elimination of the center jump after each basket. Defense has been sacrificed for offense.

Somewhat mindful of these items, Francis Kelly, who pens a weekly sports column, "Time Out", for The Monitor, became reactionary not long ago. Mr. Kelly, whose column is most times controversial, and sometimes even more so, became reminiscent of the greatest independent basketball team that ever graced the Pacific coast. That was the Saint Ignatius five of 1929, undefeated in college competition that vear except in one game against Santa Clara.

A GOOD BET

Carried away by "athletic nostalgia", Mr. Kelly assured his readers that he would give this year's highly publicized Santa Clara cagers a fifteen point halftime lead and still wager that the Dons of '29 would come out on top.

To me that seems like a good bet. I really wouldn't be too hesitant about taking Mr. Kelly upon that little matter—not for a large amount, of course, but for a sum mutually agreeable to the pocketbook of Mr. Kelly and my own.

My eagerness to wager that the Broncos of 1947 would win and that the Dons of 1929 would only place is not prompted by enthusiasm for the high riding Prune Valley cagers of this campaign. Indeed, I thank that this Bronco cage edition may be somewhat overrated. Being capable only of more modern comparisons than Mr. Kelly, I would venture to utter feebly that the Santa Clara quintet of 1942, and also the Saint Mary's team of that year (Burke, Loomis, Mota, Cerf, Boyle, and Maestri) were better than this year's team.

BRONCOS CAN SCORE

That doesn't take away from the modern Broncos who have lost only two games and have defeated USC, UCLA, and USF once, and have spanked the California Bears one plus one times. The Broncos this season have the ability to score, and I doubt (I said I'd even bet) that the slow-playing Dons of Saint Ignatius college would ever be able to overcome a 15 point halftime difference.

In its pair of defeats this season, Santa Clara has averaged at least 20 points during the second half of each of the two games. My contention, based on the fact that the Bronco Bennies would do this against the '29 Dons, virtually assures me of a winning wager.

If USF (1929) is to overcome a 15 point halftime deficit while Santa Clara (1947) is amassing at least 20 digits, then obviously and mathematically, it is necessary for USF (1929) to score at least 36 points to win the ball game.

Now for any team in 1929 to score 36 points in one half against above mediocre opposition was nigh impossible, far above the capabilities of the Dons of that year.

The Dons, let me bet, would have dropped just like the stock market of their era.

NOW FOR PRESENT

The past brings us to the present, and the present speaks of this practically past basketball season. Strange things happened during this campaign, and it is good that the season will end shortly.

Despite a victory over both California and Bradley Tech, and a possible upset in our return engagement with Santa Clara next week, the spotlight cannot be removed from the column of losses "which shouldn't have been".

TWO BASKETBALL GREATS

The candles that could not be hidden under a bushel were the basketball greats, Bill Burke and Frank Kudelka. It is the contention of many that these two basketeers are the best college players in the Bay Area. They were the high scorers on this year's unit which used a system that did not utilize their exceptional scoring abilities to the maximum.

Kudelka had the unique privilege of being the only regular on the hoop squad to keep his position throughout the entire season, even though he was shifted from one forward spot to the other.

IRON-MAN RIAL

Does the loss of Ron Livingstone hurt the team so very much? I don't think so. Jack Rial, a checker player who has moved from forward to guard to center, has filled in at the pivot post in a sterling manner.

Dan Dalton, who stayed home while supposedly "better" basketeers sustained three setbacks down south, played like a tiger the past three games. "Dirty Dan", with a few more pounds about his frame, will be one of Saint Mary's top cagers a season or so hence.

HERE 'N THERE

Most of the cagers who barnstormed the Midwest during the Christmas holidays were of the opinion that Phillip's Oilers would not have a great deal of trouble with the Oakland Bittners. Saint Mary's was the only college team in the country that has played both these teams, and the Gaels felt that Phillip's were the superior team. However, the Gaels were defeated by the Oilers on the latter's home court in Bartlesville, Oklahoma.

Jerry Perich, the reserve center, was called upon by Coach "Swede" Andersen to relieve Jack Rial in the S. F. State game a week ago. Perich, in reporting to the referee, said cutely, "Perich out." The ref yelled, "Perich out!" Whereupon big Jerry stood amazed, querying, "Who, me?"

MINOR SPORTS

Announce Swimming, Track Scheds.

The minor sports program for the spring semester was announced this week by Marty Kordick, intramural and minor sports director.

Kordick has formulated plans for representative teams from Saint Mary's in swimming, track, tennis, and golf.

The Gaels will have Mr. Maurice Bricault, recent addition to the college faculty, as swimming coach for this season. Mr. Bricault has been a competitive swimmer since 1935, and has performed in free style, backstroke, diving, and racing events.

A native of Montreal, Mr. BriCault has done considerable writing on swimming for his local newspapers, as well as on the more general subject of teaching sports.

Twenty names were listed at a signup held before the intersemester holidays. Practice will start Monday afternoon at 3:30.

The new coach offers an opportunity for any new students to signup at that time. A pair of swimming trunks is the only necessary equipment.

A schedule of eight meets has been arranged, and there is a possibility of a few additional meets.

The dates of the first four meets are as follows:

March 20, San Jose State, there.

March 21, College of Pacific, here.

March 28, Olympic Club, San Francisco.

April 11, Olympic Club, here.

the track team as soon as final arrangements can be made.

The track on Agnon Field is being prepared for an early practice season.

The veteran assistant to Jimmy Phelan is making attempts to enter Gael cinder men into the West Coast relays on May 17 in Fresno, and three other intercollegiate meets in Modesto, Compton, and Berkeley.

'Swede' Andersen Gets Extra Job

Announcements from Kansas City reveal that Clarence "Swede" Anderson has been appointed to membership in the California district committee of the National Association of Intercollegiate basketball.

This committee is to name California representatives to the national intercollegiate tournament in Kansas City March 10-15.

"APPLES STEALS IT"—Frank Kudelka grabs a free ball as California's Andy Wolfe makes a futile stab at the oval. In background in dark jersey is Jack Rial, Gael center. Kudelka was the hero of the thrilling contest which Saint Mary's won. He sunk the winning field goal in the waning seconds of the contest.

Olympic Club Foe At Kezar Tomorrow

Flushed by a two-game winning streak with their masterful upset over the Golden Bears of California and the squelching delivered to San Francisco State, the Saint Mary's basketballers will keep in tune for the big battle against Santa Clara next Friday evening with two contests this week.

The first game will join the Gaels and the Olympic Club of San Francisco as opponents tomorrow night at Kezar Pavilion. This is followed by a return engagement with a Sacramento Senators in the first fray of a double-header at Oakland's Civic Auditorium on Tuesday night—tipoff at 7 o'clock. Oakland Bittners meet the Chapel of the Oaks in the second game.

WINGED-O

Although not boasting a squad comparable to their one time championship unit of "Hank" Luisette, "Toddy" Gianinni, Ralph Headsman, "Swede" Andersen, and Kenny Meitz, the Olympic Club quintet is bolstered by many prominent ex-college players.

Playmaker Dickie Mangan leads the Winged-O from his guard spot as he once did for the Santa Clara Broncos. He has the experienced Johuuy McGee as a runing mate. Holding down the center job is Joe Merkovitch, six-foot four, 230pounder from USF. In the front line is "Fritzy" Linari, of Stanford's 1943 national champions and Dick Spillane of USF.

Senators Next

In Tuesday night's game the Gaels will be meeting the Sacramento Senators of the American Basketball League for a second time. The Senators won the first tilt in a 50-46 thriller at the capital city.

In htat particular skirmish, Roy Tamm, former California high scorer, subdued Maragan victory hopes by scoring twenty points. Teammating with Ttmm is Gus "Black magic" Mota, who wore the red and blue of Saint Mary's for two seasons.

Coach "Swede" Andersen is expected to stick with his latest lineup of Kudelka, Dalton, Rial, Crowe and Burke. Aided by the addition of tall Don "Dirty" Dalton of San Leandro at the forward spot, the Gallopers have been racking up ther highest scores of the season.

New Combine

This newest combination has Captain "Biff" Burke back at guard, and Jack Rial at the vacated center post.

Paul Crowe continues to "throw 'em up" from guard, and Frank "Apples" Kudelka is running away with the tally parade from his forward spot.

WIN TWICE

Cagers Beat Bears, Gators

Becoming offensive-minded for a weekend, the Saint Mary's basketballers registered two victories in as many contests last Friday and Saturday evenings.

A one-handed push shot by Frank Kudelka from 40 feet out with but 10 seconds remaining broke a 51-51 deadlock, and gave an exhausted Gael quintet a hard-earned win. The final score was 53-51.

A crowd of 4500 saw the Gaels jump to an early lead, and keep it throughout the first half. Taking advantage of California's somewhat sloppy ball handling in the first period, Captain Bill Burke and Kudelka garnered a six-point halftime lead for "Swede" Andersen's five.

SPECTACULAR SHOT

Coming back after the intermission, the Moragans stretched the lead to 12 digits. At this point California began a strong uphill climb, and the fast pace set by the Gaels began to bog down.

California tied the score in the closing minutes on buckets by Andy Wolfe and Chuck Hanger. Quick baskets by Danny Galvin and Kudelka put the Moragans in the lead, but Cal tide the score with 20 seconds to go. This set the stage for Kudelka's spectacular shot.

Kudelka was high scorer for the evening with 24 points. Burke scored 14 for the Gaels. Hanger garnered 13 points for the losers.

GATORS BEATEN

Center Jack Rial led the parade as Saint Mary's downed the San Francisco State five in Kezar Pavilion last Saturday night. Rial scored 15 points while playing a little more than half the game.

The Gaels galloped to an easy victory, 69-39. "Swede" Andersen cleared the Saint Mary's bench of substitutes as his cagers coasted to an easy victory.

Bill Burke was second to Rial in Gael scoring with 14 points.

Herman Awarded Gold Football

Famous Herman Wedemeyer, Hula-hipped Hawaiian, and unanimous choice for All-American halfback in 1945, was recipient of another award during the inter-semester holidays.

In a ceremony held on the campus, and attended by Jimmy Phelan, Herman's coach, and Brother Austin, President, Wedemeyer was presented with a solid gold football by Father Kenneth Stack, associated with Extension Magazine.

The Gael star was chosen on the first string of Extension's Catholic All-American football team for 1946. Wedemeyer was the only player on the Pacific Coast to receive the honor of being selected.

At the end of last season Wedemeyer was presented with another gold football by the Football Writers' Association of Northern California. This was in recognition of his being chosen as the outstanding football player in the Bay Area for 1946. Wedemeyer also received this same award in 1945. Another Gael, Bill McPartland, was chosen as the outstanding lineman in the Bay Area by this same committee.

"Collegiate Baseball Nears Post-War Peak"

Baseball is again in the limelight and from all indications the boys of the Phoenix will be very busy this spring.

Coach Johnny Vergez announced a 32 game schedule early this week that includes games with most of the collegiate baseball teams in California.

"This year's schedule is a fine one, but with 32 games in three months, my boys will be very busy," said Coach Vergez. "Collegiate baseball has neared the post-war peak and competition will be very keen," he continued. "The Phoenix, with all possibilities of a fine team, will be up with the best of them."

Asked what the prospects were for the other colleges, Vergez answered, "California always uncovers a fine ball club. This year will be no exception. USC, the winner of the California Intercollegiate Baseball League last year, has the prospects of being a team that will be hard to beat."

When asked about USF and Santa Clara, Coach Vergez had this to offer: "I have no doubts that USF will have as good a team as the one that beat us last year. As to the Broncos, I consider them a dark horse. I will have to place the Bruins from UCLA in the same bracket as Santa Clara. I know very little about their team."

Coach Vergez brought nothing to light when asked about Stanford. College of Pacific, he thinks, will have a good team regardless of the fact that they lost two of their best ball players to the semi-pros.

The Phoenix, beside their regular CIBA contests will play a number of games with semi-pro, junior college and service clubs. All except four games will be played in the Bay Area. The Gaels have four games scheduled for Seals stadium in San Francisco and three games to be played in Emeryville, home of the Oakland Acorns.

The Phoenix pitching staff received a decided boost with the addition of Bob Trestler who was all-city for Oakland Tech a few seasons back. The number of sign-ups has increased to seventy and the Gaels are raring to plant their spikes in the terra firma of the Saint Mary's diamond. Practice has been made impossible out-of-doors because J. Pluvius will not cooperate.

First practice, however, was held in the Field House on Wednesday and consisted mostly of arm-loosening exercises.

With the large number of recruits, Coach Vergez will have a Junior Varsity. Efforts are being made to assemble a schedule and all indications point to the fact that Saint Mary's fans will see double headers with the JV's playing the opener.

Coach Vergez, former Oakland manager and big league infielder, points to the possibilities of a tight infield, bolstered by veterans shortstop, Dan Galvin, second baseman Jack Buick, and first baseman Tom Loranzini.

The outfield looks good with returnees Herman Wedemeyer, top sticker for last year's Phoenix and Ed Ryan, who batted second.

Jack Rial, the only dependable moundsman last season, is expected to be the top hurler on the Gael nine.

INTRAMURAL

Cagers Start Play Monday

The Intramural Basketball league will begin next Monday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock in the field house. The league will continue until the end of March, it was announced by Manager Bob Cook.

Games will be played every afternoon, Monday through Thursday, in the field house. The teams will be divided into two leagues, each team playing every other team in its respective league once.

Two games will be played in each league every day. At the end of the round-robin schedule, play-offs will be held to determine the championship between the two leagues, Cook said.

All new students should form teams and turn in the list of players to Cook as soon as possible.

The schedule will be published next Monday. Each team will play at least once a week.

Teams need not be made up of men entirely from one class, cook explained. The only men ineligible for intramural competition are those who play varsity basketball.

Morago Golfers Start in March

The Saint Mary's College golf team, revived last year after a long layoff, will start again next month. The 1946 sextet which featured Herman Wedemeyer were conquerors of the University of San Francisco and San Jose State.

Veterans captain Jack Christensen, Tom Kolb, Tony Poshepney, and Wedemeyer will report for the team.

Many new faces are expected to be added to the roster when the signup is announced.

The schedule calls for matches with California, Stanford, USF, San Jose State, SFJC, and other schools. Most of the contests will be scheduled on a home-and-home basis.

FOOTBALL

Seven Games On Schedule

Seven games have been already set for the 1947 Saint Mary's grid schedule. Three tilts have been given definite dates at Kezar Stadium, the home turf of the Galloping Gaels.

The gridiron battles so far settled are with the University of Portland at Kezar, California at Berkeley, Washington at Seattle, Nevada at Kezar, Loyola at Los Angeles, Santa Clara at Kezar, and Boston College at Boston.

The date for the annual game with the USF Dons has not been set. Four open dates remain on the schedule, and indications point out that they will be filled with two so far unamed intersectional battles, and USF.

That leaves a ten-game program to be carried out by Jimmy Phelan's footballers.

SODA SPRINGS

Gael Skiers Enjoy Snow

The recently organized ski club was active over the semester holidays with more than 35 members at the lodge at one time or another.

Newly elected President Tom Storer reports that the skiing was good, but that it was at its best toward the end of the holidays when the snow fell the heaviest.

Other new officers of the club are: Jack Rarig, vice president; Dave Self, treasurer, and Mike Tobin, secretary.

At a meeting this week it was voted that when any week-end vacancies existed, non-members would be eligible to stay at the lodge for the nominal sum of five dollars a weekend for room and board. Those interested in taking advantage of this concession should contact Storer in Room 216 of Augustine Hall between 6:30 and 7 on Tuesday evening.

The club's weekly meeting is held each Tuesday at 12:30 in D-115, and anyone interested in applying for membership is invited to attend. The fifteen dollar membership fee entitles the student to the use of the lodge for the ensuing seven weeks.

It has also been planned by the club that in the future movies of ski trips will be shown. The schedule of the showing of these pictures will be posted on the bulletin board for the benefit of those interested.

Kudelka's 310 Points Set New Gael Season Mark

When Frank "Apples" Kudelka, brilliant freshman forward of the Galloping Gaels, basketed 24 points against California last Friday night, he is believed to have become the first Gael to bucket more than 300 points in one season.

So far this season, the 21-year-old sensation from Lowell High in San Francisco, has tallied 128 field goals, and 54 free throws for a total of 310 points. Since Kudelka has played in 25 games, his average per contest is 12.4.

The ex-Coast Guardsman is not regarded as a "shooter," but rather as an all-around cager. He is the "Workhorse" of "Swede" Anderson's unit. He has never taken more than his share of shots in any contest this season.

In the remaining five, or possibly six, games left on the basketball schedule, Kudelka will increase his new record.

Second to Kudelka in the scoring race is Captain Bill Burke who led the Gael scoring column when he was an All-Coast casaba artist in 1943. Burke has made 252 points, tallying 100 field goals and 52 free throws.

These scoring leaders, Kudelka and Burke, are two of the most highly regarded basketeers on the Pacific Coast.

Burke is a senior playing his lase season for the Red and Blue.

Saint Mary's Club Notes

REGULAR MONTHLY MEETING

The regular monthly meeting of the Saint Mary's club will be held next Monday evening at 8:15 p. m. in the rooms of Plumbers hall, 110 Page Street in San Francisco.

Committee Chairman Edward McKeever is collecting talent for the March meeting which will be held on Saint Patrick's night, March 17. Mark off your calendar and make it a date with the Saint Mary's club on that evening. Time and place will be announced later. We have secured a good football picture, namely the Army-Navy game of 1946.

The last regular meeting of the club again brought out a goodly number of the members for a lively business session and a pleasant hour of conversation at the refreshment table.

J. Vincent Hap Kennedy read the financial reports of the three football tours during the past season. The club participated in the profits of these trips, and the members present were unanimous in their expression of appreciation.

In response to suggestions from several club members a letter of thanks has been sent to Brother Austin of the College.

Mr. Gene Pometta deserves a big hand for the way he conducted the details of the trips. It was no easy job to prepare three tours in the short space of five weeks.

BIG-BROTHER GAME

The Club hopes to be able to revive again this year the Big Brother Day at the College. It is too early to make any announcement regarding it at this time, but by the February meeting we expect to have more definite news for the members.

A lengthy discussion was held regarding a proposed Valentine party for the club members and their wives, but it was decided that such a party would require more time than any of the members could be expected to devote to its preparation. Accordingly, it was decided to forego the Valentine party, and have instead a special program for the regular March meeting which falls on Saint Patrick's Day. Admission to this affair will be by your Membership Card. Details later.

We were all pleased to see our friend and long-time member, Mark Bradley, at the January meeting. Mark is now stationed in the southern part of the state, and is not able to attend meetings regularly as in the past.

Mr. Rau Dunn entertained with a few remarks on his experience as a prisoner of war in Japanese concentration camps for almost three years.

NEW MEMBERS

The officers and directors of the Saint Mary's club welcome the following new members to membership: Fay Patrick McDonald, of the San Francisco Board of Education, sponsored by Stanley Meyers; Charles Francis Regan, of the U. S. Post Office, sponsored by Frank J. Jackson; Richard C. Foley, of Tay Holbrook Inc., sponsored by Thomas J. Shaughnessy; Eugene T. Conroy, with Tiedemann & McMorran, sponsored by Hap Kennedy; Gerald Sullivan, with the U. S. Post Office, sponsored by Frank J. Jackson; Schuyler Mulroy, with W. & J. Sloanes, sponsored by Hap Kennedy; Roy W. Cole an accountant with Linde Air Products Co., sponsored by Frank A. Koch Jr.; Mervin E. Enos with Tiedemann & McMorran sponsored by Hap Kennedy.

CONGRATULATIONS

To Walter Gordon who was installed as President of the Real Estate Association of San Francisco. Ceremonies were held at the Palace Hotel. Best wishes Walt.

HERE AND THERE

Maybe the reason for why Duane Madden is such an ardent sports fan is that he is employed by Wilson Sporting Goods Co. Seen at most of our last years meetings were Vince Daly and Frank Zimmerman. Keep up the fine work, brothers! We hear that Frank Kearney has quite a voice and the fellows at his office call him "Standard Oil Co. Frankie."

Discussing the Gaels on Mondays were Jack O'Connell and Dr. Walter Byrne D.D.S. at the latter's office. Doc says, "Some of the holes he fills are almost the same size that were in the Gaels' line at times. Well Doc, reserve strength will be there this year to fill up those holes come this Fall, we trust. Hope to see you down at one of our meetings.

We were sorry to hear that our Past President Thomas F. Kennedy Sr. of the Southern Pacific Co., has been transferred to San Luis Obispo. Best of luck Tom in your new enterprise.

Seen at the Santa Clara-Saint Mary's basketball game were Con Crimmins, Frank Jackson, Danny Dee, Ed and George Darbey, Chester Alsford, Frank Neary, Gerry Nunan, Hap Kennedy, Bill Augustine, Lloyd Kingsley, Al Cunningham, John Enright, and Andrew Johnson. Next game will be with the Olympic Club at Kezar tomorrow night.

It has been an ambitious schedule. To the Basketball Baron of the Moraga Valley, Clarence Swede Andersen, we wish good luck in the remaining games to be played on the schedule.

The donor of our beautiful gavel, Mr. Adam Welker, has recently obtained the needed mechanical equipment, and will complete the set with a matching sounding box. The club is very grateful to Adam.

Collegian Meeting

All present and prospective members of the staff of the Collegian are requested to be present for an important meeting Monday at 12:30 in the Collegian office.

Air Force Vet Group Meets

Saint Mary's Air Corps veterans will have a chance to hear General "Jimmy" Doolittle tell the details of the brand new air force association when he speaks in San Francisco's veteran's auditorium next Tuesday night at 8:00 p.m.

Frank Gabreskie, formerly of Notre Dame, is commander of the California Wing of the AFA. Doolittle is national commander, and will outline the main purposes of the infant association.

A drive is currently being made to canvass American colleges and universities to locate former air corps members who may be interested in such an organization. Squadrons will eventually be established wherever there are enough members—even in colleges, if there is enough interest to justify such a step.

In a letter to the Collegian, Thomas F. Stock, of the AFA organizing committee asked interested air corps veterans to contact him: 2000 Mills Tower Building, 220 Bush st., San Francisco.

Reasons for Slow Checks Given by VA

Preparing for second semester enrollment through the country, the Veterans' Administration listed the main reasons for delays in the payment of subsistence allowances to students. They are:

1. Veterans fail to report changes of address when they move, so checks are automatically returned to the Treasury and held there. Government checks are never forwarded by post offices.

2. VA receives incomplete information from the school or the veteran. Subsistence checks must be delayed until complete facts about marriage status, wages, date of enrollment and other conditions are reported.

3. Schools may delay the payments by being slow in sending necessary papers to VA. One large midwestern university last fall waited until six weeks after enrollment to give VA the necessary papers to pay 450 veterans.

4. Veterans transfer from a school in one regional office area to one in a different jurisdiction. Some delay is unavoidable while VA records are transferred to the new office.

Reports received early in January from VA field offices showed between 40,000 and 50,000 veterans—about 2 percent of all G. I. Bill trainees—had been in courses more than 30 days and had not received subsistence checks. Many of these, its was found, were in schools that had not yet been approved by the state for training under the G. I. Bill, and thus were not eligible for the subsistence allowance.

A change of address will usually not delay a veteran's check materially if he reports it promptly, VA said.

PRESENTATION—Chairman of the Board of Solano County Supervisors John J. O'Grady, left, is pictured as he presented Brother Matthew's book on the life of Judge Joseph McKenna to John J. Bradley, president of the Solano County Bar association. Looking on is Father Albert Muller, of Benicia, who presented the book to the board of supervisors.

Brother Matthew Praised For Portrayal of Judge

A tribute was paid to Brother Matthew recently for his excellent biography of Judge Joseph McKenna of the Solano County Bar association.

John J. O'Grady, accepting the book from Father Albert Muller, of Benicia, remarked, "I feel that the simple, truthful style of the book reflects the spirit of a great man who spent most of his life in Benicia and Suisun, and who gave the best part of his life toward promoting the welfare of this district."

Another copy of the book will be presented to the Benicia city council at the next regular meeting.

The book was part of Brother Matthew's work for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy while he was attending the Catholic University of America at Washington, D. C. It not only gives an interesting account of Judge McKenna's life, but also brings out many details in the untouched history of Solano county.

Much of the information for the biography was supplied by Mrs. Davenport Brown, daughter of the late judge, who became a friend of Brother Matthew while he was studying in Washington, D. C., where she now lives.

S. F. Muni Judge, S. M. Graduate, Dies at S. F. Home

$10,000 Says It's The Tunnel Strip

Refer to it no longer as the "cross-roads," fellows!

A $10,000 publicity campaign for hotels, motels, restaurants and nighteries in the Orinda-Lafayette area will be started immediately, it was revealed yesterday.

The sector — Saint Mary's own college city area—will be publicized as the "tunnel strip," a new rival of the San Francisco peninsula and Marin county areas.
